Lively Cartoons —

Pictures & Jokes! Kicks!

SNAPPY-MAN'S GAGS is published as an Act of Kindness and Benefaction, for the Welfare of Mankind all over the World, including Texas, Brooklyn, and Cucumonga. Benefactory located at 655 Madison Avenue, New York 21, N.Y. Contents copyright 1956 by Humorama, Inc. Any similarity between any person, place, or joke, is a coincidence; sometimes it happens because so many things travel faster than sound today!

"SHE'S SO BEAUTIFUL, WE JUST HAD TO TAKE ANOTHER PEEP!"

SNAPPY!

"ANYTHING WORTH DOING IS WORTH DOING . . . WELL?"

"SHOULD ANYTHING HAPPEN ON THE WAY UP, MISS, YOU CAN SEE IT WON'T BE ME!"

"I'm going crazy, doctor," the man confessed to the psychiatrist. "Wherever I go I see beautiful girls following me, pleading with me to take them into my arms!"

"Don't let it worry you," the psychiatrist advised him. "That happens to many young men. It's all just your imagination."

"I know it, doc—that's why I'm going crazy!"

GALS WHO WEAR SLACKS MUST NOT BE LAX!

The young lover slipped his arms around the buxom damsel's slim waist as they sat on the park bench.

"Is that all the ambition you have in life?" she asked.

"Not really," he answered with a leer. "My mind's really on higher things!"

SNAPPY!

"DON'T THESE GIRLS REALIZE THAT THEY OUTNUMBER THE MEN THREE TO ONE? HOW COME NONE OF THEM HAVE MADE A PASS AT ME?"

Give me a sentence with the word 'gallantry'.
Have you heard the story about the one gallantry men
marooned on an island?!

"THEN IT'S A DATE; MEET YOU TOMORROW, SAME TIME, SAME PLACE!"

"COME TO THINK OF IT, YOU DO LOOK FAMILIAR!"

"Joan will never go horseback riding at that dude ranch again in a playsuit."

"Why not?"

"Well, a cowboy told her to take off the halter and she realized that it was the horse's halter she was supposed to take off and not her own!"

"THANKS AGAIN FOR YOUR ORDER, MR. STEPHENS; AND DON'T WORRY, YOU'LL FIND SOME USE FOR 1500 CORKSCREWS!"

"YOUR DIET IS GOOD, MEDICINE SATISFACTORY—I'LL JUST HAVE ANOTHER NURSE REPLACE MISS MUMSA!"

"YIPES! THOUGHT IT WAS THE DOG SCRATCHING AT THE DOOR!"

The newlyweds hurriedly checked into their honeymoon cottage. The groom shrugged the wedding rice from his shoulders and impatiently embraced his charming wife.

"Darling, I'll never leave you," he whispered. "Your beauty intoxicates me. Your warm lips are red as rich wine. Champagne sparkles from your eyes and your golden hair glistens with the full flavor of" Suddenly he choked and wiped his brow.

"Yes, yes, go on," she sighed passionately.

"I'm thirsty," he gasped. "I'm going out for a drink."

METHODS FOR MADNESS!

Alice was a highbrow;
He talked to her of Shaw,
Rodin and Scheherezade
And Mr. Einstein's law;
He prated of the classics,
Quoted Browning, Homer,
Pater,
And all he got was icy stares
from his fascinator.

Mary was a simple maid;
For her delectation
He gushed of ordinary things:
Movies, syncopation,
Fashions and the current
news,
Scandal often shady,
And all he got was puzzled
frowns
From the little lady.

He became a gloomy lad,
Ever went repining,
Then he brushed the clouds
away
And found the silver lining:
Be a maiden wise or slow,
To win the favor of her,
Take her in your arms and
say
How very much you love
her!

Preparing to accompany a U.S.O. show troupe overseas, the pretty showgirl was sent to the medical detachment at the port of embarkation to receive necessary vaccination. The sergeant in charge told her to roll up her sleeve.

"No, not there!" she said.

"Then roll down your stocking."

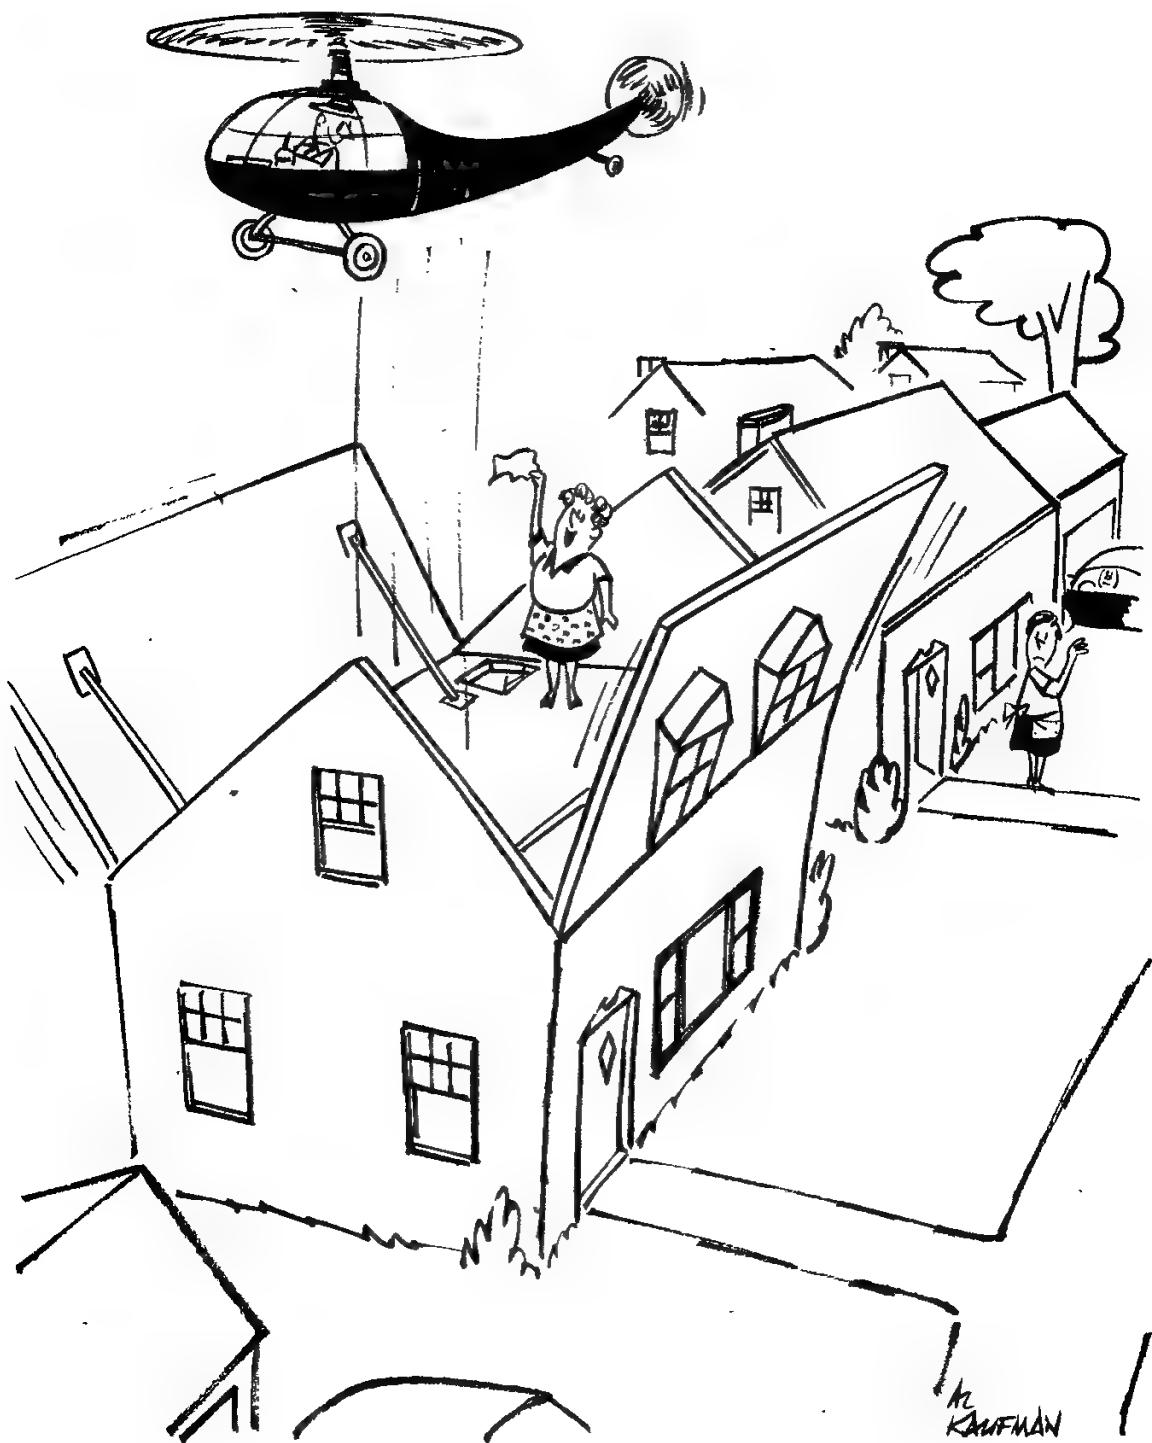

"Oh, no! Not on my leg either. It would show!"

With needle poised, the sergeant hesitated a moment and then commented sharply, "Wait a minute, this is a case for the major!"

Two young actresses were passing a beauty shop when one of them remarked, "Oh, look, Maybelle. Let's go in there. They sure have some fine masseurs in that place. Wonderful masseurs!"

"Masseurs? Masseurs?" echoed the second one. "What are masseurs?"

"Why, masseurs are men who pinch you all over; make you feel real good!"

"Ohhh! You mean sailors!"

"I THINK SHE'S SOME KIND OF EDITOR, SIR; THE NOTE YOU SENT HER HAS COME BACK WITH CORRECTIONS!"

Colonel Bottomly, now retired from service but active as an executive of an adding machine company, met a young man who had served as his orderly during the war. The colonel noticed the man was down and out and offered to help him. "I need a valet," said the colonel, "so

"THE CHARGE IS THEFT! HE CLAIMS WHILE HE STEPPED UP TO THE BAR, YOU STOLE HIS GIRL!"

The wife of the insurance executive did not expect her husband home until very late. She was entertaining his best friend in a completely hospitable manner when the telephone rang. She answered, hung up and reported to the friend, "That was my husband. He finished his work early."

The friend started to go for his coat and hat. "Oh, don't rush off," said the wife. "I don't expect he'll be home before dawn. He just told me he's over at your house playing poker with you and the boys!"

The bespectacled little man entered the Nude Ranch and found himself surrounded by gaping spectators. He walked up the aisle to where a particularly large crowd was staring impatiently through a huge plate glass window. And then he was able to see that on the other side of the glass were quite a number of lovely girls engaged in a volley ball match. The one interesting feature of the match was that the girls were clad only in cowboy boots.

The little man turned to one transfixed gentleman, tapped him on the shoulder, and inquired quietly, "What's the score?"

"BEATS ME WHAT IT SAYS, I CAN'T READ EITHER!"

On a blind date with a very nice looking girl, Fred took her for a drive in his new car. After a short drive into the country, they parked in a secluded dell. Fred offered her a cigarette. "Oh, I never smoke," she said.

Then he offered her a drink from the bottle in the glove compartment, but she refused, saying, "Oh, I never drink, either."

Desperately, Fred suggested a stroll in the nearby woods, and the girl accepted. Two hours later they returned to the car. "There, dear boy," the girl said. "See how much fun you can have without all that nasty smoking and drinking!"
